Limited edition of 7

To me the black leopard or black panther embodies something even more mysterious than other big cats, most likely because of the blackness of their fur which makes them seem almost invisible. Yet, in the right lighting, the subtle spots, characteristic of their species, become very apparent. And, just as your domestic cat walks across the floor or leaps effortlessly to a table top, in total silence, so too does the panther. This all seems to add to the mystery of the feline creature.
